Client agrees to arrive in Yakutat, Alaska on the morning or afternoon prior to the first day of the hunt. The client will meet up with a prearranged floatplane service and fly from the port of Yakutat to get to the vessels that will already be anchored up in Moose country in Icy Bay. The cost of the floatplane which is approximately a 15-20 minute flight will be divided by all hunting clients aboard the plane. If client misses scheduled shared floatplane, it is client's responsibility to charter floatplane to get to the vessels at clients expense. If client harvests an animal early it is clients option to fly out early by floatplane at client's expense. On the afternoon of the 7th day of the trip all clients will return to Yakutat by floatplane.

It is the client's responsibility to arrive at the vessels which will be on anchor in remote moose country with a non-resident hunting license and all tags/tickets required and sportfishing license if desired. Sportfishing is complimentary and will be offered as time allows. This will not be considered a guided sportfishing trip in any way. The focus of the trip will be on hunting and offering all clients a harvest opportunity. Client is responsible for all costs of licenses and tags associated with this trip.

Limited trophy care will be provided during the trip to include: the freezing of capes and/or meat. The skull will be removed by guides. Client is responsible for all taxidermy fees.

The Icy Bay Hunt will be supervised under Registered Guide Darren Byler License Number 1151. Darren Byler will also be physically present managing and guiding for the duration of the hunt. The hunt will be conducted entirely on State Land in Unit 6a, Southern Gulf Coast of Alaska. This area includes all beaches, tidal flats and uplands abutting the beaches. This policy parallels the operating policies of National Air Carriers and the Alaska Marine Highway Ferry System.

Even though Icy Bay has a very healthy moose population, it is unlawful to guarantee that you will harvest an animal. We will not be hunting on a game ranch with high fences; this is a fair-chase hunt in the wilderness of Alaska. The definition of hunter success with Alaskan Adventure Tours is offering a first-class trip which includes top of the line equipment, accommodations and meal service. The definition of success also extends to the opportunity presented to the hunter to harvest an animal. What the hunter does with the opportunity becomes the hunters personal 'success rate'.

Client must be prepared to go into the field. We recommend that you physically work out prior to the hunt and get yourself into moderate physical condition so that it will increase your ability to hunt effectively. We do not cruise around in the boats all day long looking for moose.

Our mode of hunting operation is as follows: You will be dropped off with your guide to hunt in the field for the day where the moose are prevalent.
